1. Introduction

The financial remuneration at the Storebrand Group (Group) shall contribute to attracting, developing and retaining competent, motivated and adaptable employees who contribute to the long-term value creation in the Group. Furthermore, the remuneration must comply with the statutory requirements for remuneration schemes that apply to the Group's companies that are subject to licensing and as stipulated in the Financial Institutions Act, Securities Trading Act, Securities Funds Act and the Act relating to the management of alternative investment funds. The requirements in Swedish laws and regulations apply for the companies in Sweden.

1.1 The remuneration elements shall contribute to the following:

Manage

It is a basic assumption that the design of the instruments pertaining to financial remuneration is an important factor which produces the desired behaviour.

Motivate

Employees will be motivated to perform to their maximum level in order to increase the remuneration they receive.

Recognise

Use of the various financial remuneration elements helps to demonstrate what results and actions are rewarded.

The best possible use of financial remuneration contributes to creating a performance culture with clear goals for all employees and appropriate management evaluations that differentiate between good and less optimal levels of performance.

Storebrand Asset Management AS has two subsidiaries, SKAGEN AS and Cubera Private Equity AS, each of which has their own board-appointed compensation committee and guidelines for financial remuneration. The Group's guidelines will not directly apply to these two subsidiaries in 2022.

1.2 Main principles for financial remuneration

The financial remuneration shall be designed to:

- a. Contribute to strengthening customer orientation and safeguarding the customer's overall needs, with a view to avoiding conflicts of interest.
- b. Stimulate good operational risk management and internal control.

- c. Stimulate cooperation across the Group and continuous improvement to create a culture of achievement.
- d. Help focus the efforts of employees.
- e. Ensure that the Group's strategy and plans provide the basis for the goals and requirements set for the employees' performance.
- f. Ensure that remuneration is based on long-term thinking, balanced goal-oriented management and real value creation.
- g. Be based on evaluations of the individual's results and compliance with the Group's values.
- h. Facilitate a remuneration process linked to the establishment of goals that are clear, transparent and team-based.
- i. Ensure that both the development in financial compensation and requirements of the position are based on the position's responsibilities and complexity.

Storebrand shall have an incentive model that supports the strategy, with emphasis on the customers' interests and long-term perspective, an ambitious collaborative model, as well as transparency that enhances the Group's reputation. Therefore, the Company will primarily emphasise a fixed salary as a means of overall financial compensation, and only to a limited extent make use of variable remuneration.

Each year there is a local salary process for all Storebrand employees. The company's strategy and objectives are used as a basis for assessing each individual's total remuneration. Sustainability is an important part of Storebrand's business strategy. The goals that each area of the Group has set for sustainability will therefore also be an important part of the overall salary assessment.

It is the responsibility of the individual managers to propose financial compensation for an employee. Decisions regarding financial compensation are made in consultation with HR and must be within the framework of the Group's principles and guidelines for financial remuneration.

2. Use of fixed salary

2.1 Fixed salary for employees

The fixed salary shall be based on employee performance and an evaluation of whether an employee is at a low, medium or high level when compared to other employees in the same position category. The salary level for the position category must be assessed in relation to the market salary and balanced against internal salary levels.

Equal positions should have a calibrated salary level. This provides a basis for the consistent use of fixed salary when, among other things, different results are reflected in different levels of fixed salary.

The Group incorporates basic categories of positions. For each category, the salary levels at Storebrand must be documented and relevant market salaries for these categories identified.

People shall ensure that processes and guidelines are up-to-date and the line management are responsible for familiarising themselves and complying with the guidelines. People is responsible for control routines.

Evaluation of the annual salary adjustment processes constitutes the basis for assessing/evaluating performance.

Adjustments to fixed salary shall also be made within the pool of funds used by the Group and each business area. As a general principle, adjustments to fixed salary shall be made once a year unless the employee is given a new role, moves to a higher level position or is assigned different work tasks and responsibilities within the existing role.

2.2 Executive management's share-based remuneration model

Executive management has a share-based remuneration model which entails that a proportion of the gross salary shall be used to purchase Storebrand shares with a lock-in period of three years. Gross salary is the sum total of the salary that is paid out (cash salary) and salary that goes towards share purchases (share-based remuneration). The purpose of the share-based remuneration model is to ensure that the executive management at the Group act in accordance with the long-term interests of the owners. Executive management are also encouraged to retain the shares, even after the lock-in period has expired.

35 per cent of the gross salaries of the CEO and CFO shall be used for share purchases. For other roles within executive management, 25 per cent of the gross salary shall be used for share purchases. The share-based remuneration is part of the total gross salary, is included in the pensionable income and is not performance-based.

Furthermore, it enables employees in key roles at the level below executive management to receive a limited part of the gross salary as share-based remuneration. For these roles, the shares that are purchased will also have a lock-in period of three years.
